Announcing the 2019 Class of SI4DEV Partners!

(Lagos, Nigeria. March 1, 2019) STRATEGY AND INNOVATION FOR DEVELOPMENT INITIATIVE (SI4DEV) is thrilled to announce our trainee Partners (Fellows, Interns or Ambassadors) for 2019 through the SI4DEV Partners Program. Our Partners are a vital part of achieving the SI4DEV goals of a 21st century Nigeria where every citizen has a just and fair access to the resources and opportunities needed to achieve their full potential.

SI4DEV announced the inaugural class for its Partners Training in 2018, a program based on a train-the-trainers logic model. Since then we have selected and trained over 150 influencers. These young leaders have made visible and measurable impact in the focus areas of SI4DEV and have extended our projects to multiple communities across several states, and the FCT.

The SI4DEV Partners training program is a 6-month intensive capacity development opportunity that offers selected change makers and influencers the chance to gain leadership and project management training, mentoring and experiential skills development needed to accelerate their impact as community builders.

Partners are exposed to opportunities to collaborate on community improvement work with a wide range of committed, inspiring and influential experts and professionals. Subject-matter experts and practitioners provide detailed information on issues and trends to help generate new ideas and share best practices.

Through interactive social media groups, staff provide support on a daily or weekly basis to challenge individuals or teams in ways that maximize their strengths and develop competencies in making effective decisions, partnership and collaboration, time management, leading and communicating.

There is leadership as well as management development activities, including: coaching, e-learning courses, knowledge and behavioral development, speaker opportunities, peer learning, in person meetings or training and development sessions and visits to national and global events and institutions.

Nested within this 6 months training program is a 3 month mentoring module. This module is organized by The Spring Development Initiative (the US based affiliate of SI4DEV) to offer participants project direction advice, management and technical expertise as well as international exposure and connections.

TSDI provides Mentors who are paired with the SI4DEV Partners to mentor them. Such mentors could be either a Wisdom-of-Age Mentor or a Peer Mentor. The mentoring is expected to promote strategic thinking, partnership opportunities, research and innovative solutions as the Partners develop action plans to address critical social issues in their communities. SI4DEV will also work with these Partners to establish their suitability and alignment of their goals with TSDI objectives to promote capacity building and sustainable community development.

At the end of the six months, successful Partners will have developed their action plans to structure their community development work. The top 10 proposals will get opportunities for online and offline crowdfunding and TSDI will support with matching funds. The generated resources will be disbursed to the successful partners to help accelerate their efforts and grow their impact.

Successful trainees will graduate into the SI4DEV Alumni Network at the end of the 6 months as Fellows of the program. Those who submitted proposals will become full partners and will receive support to pilot their funded community projects.

MARCH - THE MONTH FOR WOMEN

WHY INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY?

By Patricia Okolo

After women gained suffrage in Soviet Russia in 1917, March 8, became a national holiday there. The day was then chiefly celebrated by the socialist movement and communist countries. Finally, in 1975 it was officially adopted by the United Nations. This is the point of focus in the movement for Women's Rights.

As we celebrate international women day today with the theme, BALANCE FOR BETTER, we should be innovative for change, as women we should not be limited to take up actions, leadership positions and decisions. You're an epitome of beauty with brains, each and every woman is uniquely special and precious in their own beautiful way.

There is a thin line between equality and justice and yes on this women day, we need to work rigorously in empowering women around us, so that they can live with respect, equality and honor in our society today.

WOMEN-LED PILOT PROJECTS SPONSORED BY SI4DEV AND AFFILIATE PARTNER.

International Women's Day (IWD) is an occasion for celebrating women's achievements worldwide – including strides in the political and social sectors, as well as continuing the call for gender equality. The day was first observed in the early 1900s and is now recognized each year on March 8, in a month filled with events to motivate and inspire women around the world.

This year, the theme for the International Women's Day is Balance for Better which addresses work-life balance for women and the challenges women face juggling responsibilities at work and home. Towards this theme, we are asking you, as a man or woman, how can you and your community support women to balance their life and work better?

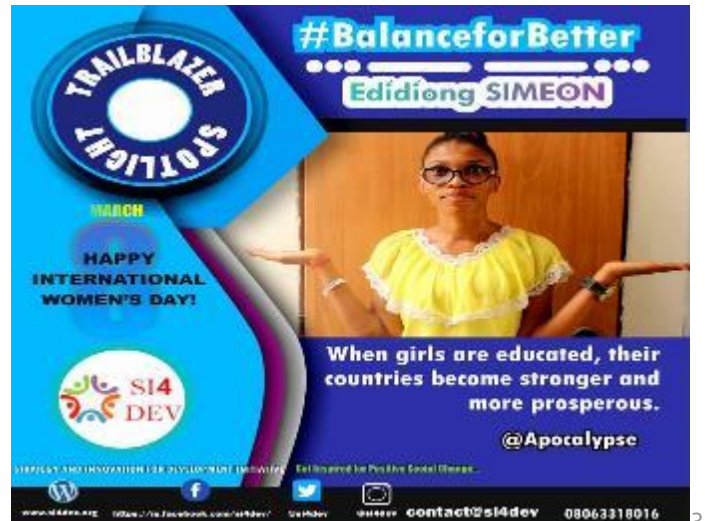

Below are stories from eight (8) of our partners and volunteers in Nigeria, and we are helping them break glass ceilings and make a difference for women and girls in their communities.

Launching of the Crop Processing machine in Abak Village

It was very great at the launching of the Crop processing facility in Abak village. The community representative, traditional rulers, women and youth leaders were part of the organizing committee and turned up for the event.

The Local government chairman ably represented by supervisor of Agriculture said the local government will grade the road to the facility and provide 3500 capacity water tanks as well as an oil tank.

One of the board members from our Sponsor organization in the USA, The Spring Development Initiative, sent in a congratulatory message, saying; "Great work, Grace. I am happy that the residents of the community will have an easier time processing their crops. My hope is that this will be a sustainable venture. Hopefully the sustainability team is up to the task."

We are indeed working towards that.

The project lead says she has not seen such high community participation like this before...and there has been massive capacity transfer so far.

LIFE SKILLS PROJECTS IN 2 BENUE SECONDARY SCHOOLS

Our hearts were filled with joy as the girls facilitated the week 4 & 5 sessions. Let's bear in mind that some of these girls prior to the program could not stand in front of their own mates and talk. Now they're bursting with self confidence in their expanded knowledge and skills

EDUCATION MATERIALS TO SECONDARY SCHOOL STUDENTS IN OSUN STATE

Report by Partner and Project Lead Tomisin Adefare "I was at the students school to get the forms because they are finishing their exams today. Some didn't fill the form. From my questions, I discovered some students don't have time to read as some hawk after school, some go to farm after school and some stay with their parent at the shop while some filled the form. They only learnt from each other through group discussion. So, the problem is from their various homes. If parents can be giving their children time to read, they will always do better. I wished them all the best as they finish their exams. Their resumption is in 2weeks time."

Lesson learned: The parents need to be enlightened too. One key to share with the children if opportunity comes again is that they need to give time to what is important to them. Even if 10 mins during break time at school can be used to read.

He emphasize that the vision of the si4dev is to see a just and fair society with more community participation in governance, accountable leadership, sustainable businesses and access to quality high-quality health care and education for all. Emphasizing that the organization has set forth strategic plans as follows:

He explained that one of the challenges experienced during the project implementation, was the poor quality of local source of input at certain milestone, thereby leading to delays in project reporting. He emphasized that there is a partnership with visible charity global foundation to ensure effective project utilization and maintenance.

Next on the agenda was the location group WASH project, but the meeting convener decided that opportunity be given to any member who wishes to introduce a project. Mr. Uzodinma suggested that since the menace of accident around schools situated along busy roads is on the increase, we should embark on public awareness on the use of zebra-crossing. He also suggested that we could partner with FRSC to construct a zebra-crossing for a school within PHALGA and approach the state house of assemble to enact a law that will be enforced by the state, such that offenders that don’t regard zebra-crossing will be fined. The house agreed and decided to assigned responsibilities to individuals towards the project planning.

ACTION ITEMS

- Victor Elemchukwu to scout a school within PHALGA where the project will be implemented and report back in 7 days.
- Uzodinma to carry out a project cost estimate and report back in 10 days
- Kosi to explore means of partnering with FRSC on zebra-crossing and report back in 10 days
- Francis to carryout SWOT analysis on proposed project and report back in 2 weeks when the house will reconvene for another meeting.

Francis suggested that towards the Children’s day celebration on May 27th 2019, we should embark on a WASH awareness campaign by adopting a community school of choice where there is need for awareness, and to sensitize the pupils on good sanitation practices.

WORLD WATER DAY

BY Simon Salawu

World Water Day - What is the theme?

The theme for World Water Day 2019 is 'Leaving no one behind'. This is an adaptation of the central promise of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development: as sustainable development progresses, everyone must benefit.

Sustainable Development Goal 6 (SDG 6) includes a target to ensure availability and sustainable management of water for all by 2030. By definition, this means leaving no one behind.

What is the problem?

Today, billions of people are still living without safe water – their households, schools, workplaces, farms and factories struggling to survive and thrive.

Marginalized groups – women, children, refugees, indigenous peoples, disabled people and many others – are often overlooked, and sometimes face discrimination, as they try to access and manage the safe water they need.

What does 'safe water' mean?

'Safe water' is shorthand for a 'safely managed drinking water service': water that is accessible on the premises, available when needed, and free from contamination.

Why is it important?

Whoever you are, wherever you are, water is your human right. Access to water underpins public health and is therefore critical to sustainable development and a stable and prosperous world. We cannot move forward as a global society while so many people are living without safe water.

Marginalized groups – women, children, refugees, indigenous peoples, disabled people and many others – are often overlooked, and sometimes face discrimination, as they try to access and manage the safe water they need.

What is the human right to water?

In 2010, the UN recognized "the right to safe and clean drinking water and sanitation as a human right that is essential for the full enjoyment of life and all human rights."

The human right to water entitles everyone, without discrimination, to sufficient, safe, acceptable, physically accessible and affordable water for personal and domestic use; which includes water for drinking, personal sanitation, washing of clothes, food preparation, and personal and household hygiene.

Why are people being left behind without safe water?

People are left behind without safe water for many different reasons. The following are some of the 'grounds for discrimination' that cause certain people to be particularly disadvantaged when it comes to accessing water:

- Sex and gender
- Race, ethnicity, religion, birth, caste, language, and nationality
- Disability, age and health status
- Property, tenure, residence, economic and social status

Other factors, such as environmental degradation, climate change, population growth, conflict, forced displacement and migration flows can also disproportionately affect marginalized groups through impacts on water.

What needs to be done?

To 'leave no one behind', we must focus our efforts towards including people who have been marginalized or ignored. Water services must meet the needs of marginalized groups and their voices must be heard in decision-making processes. Regulatory and legal frameworks must recognize the right to water for all people, and sufficient funding must be fairly and effectively targeted at those who need it most.
